Dear Colleague:

Each year, about a million federal employees voluntarily participate in the Combined Federal Campaign, quietly donating hundreds of millions of dollars to tens of thousands of not-for-profit organizations. The program has been in operation since 1961 and has become the model for states, municipalities and others who offer their workers a simple way to support charities in their communities and around the world.

The CFC system is quite extensive, involving hundreds of administrative offices and procedures developed over many years that are designed to ensure that funds go where donors wish. Not surprisingly, the CFC generates a great deal of data, a significant portion of which the government annually collects and publishes. The information that the government gathers and releases, however, is summary in nature: the number of federal employees across the country and overseas who were solicited, the number of employees who pledged, the total amount they pledged, and so forth.

While information of this kind is valuable (it can help identify nationwide trends, for example), it is possible to understand much more about the CFC and donor wishes. The data is available that can tell us the causes that most interest federal donors. We can learn whether donors care about a charity's administrative overhead. We can see whether donors in urban areas and rural areas participate to the same degree and support the same groups.

Given the amount of money donated, the CFC is a key source of philanthropic support for American charities. But, it can also be something more: a window into the priorities of American donors. Each year, about a million Americans – federal employees – give to thousands of charities. All of us in the philanthropic world can benefit from knowing better where these Americans are directing their support.

With the help of local CFC administrators across the country, we are for the first time publishing information far more detailed than any available to date. For the first time, we can know which charities do best and which charities do worst. We can know what topics most appeal to donors, and more.

Our study, A Million Donors Choose, will have several phases. This first phase involves the release of 2009 data provided to us by 110 CFC administrative zones. While the information we already have represents over two thirds of all the money pledged in the 2009 CFC, we continue to reach out to administrators around the country. We will publish a final 2009 report early next year. We will follow the 2009 report with a report that focuses on the 2010 results. We hope to release an initial version of that report early next year as well.

The CFC is a complicated world, administered nationwide and involving thousands of volunteers. Tens of thousands of charities are screened annually. Hundreds of millions of dollars are transferred from paychecks to benefiting groups.

A Million Donors Choose

We believe data such as we publish here can help administrators better manage the CFC. We believe as well that donors and charities alike will benefit if they can more easily understand this complex system.

While we have taken the lead in gathering and organizing the data, our project rests on the readiness of local administrators and others to help. We thank the PCFOs, government regulators, federal volunteers and others who have already contributed their information and insights. As this project evolves, we look forward to working with many others as well.

A project of this scale involves the contributions of many. The people and offices noted below have helped in a variety of ways. This project would not have been possible without their contributions. They do not, however, share blame for any error in analysis, which is entirely our own.

Office of Personnel Management

This project benefited from the kind contribution of publicly available information from OPM staff in the Office of CFC Operations.

Initial PCFOs Contributing to this Report

We wish to thank the administrators of the 18 local CFC zones that provided the initial data with which we worked this summer. OPM labels these administrators “PCFOs” or “Principle Combined Fund Organizations.” (We shall try to keep our jargon to a minimum, but this is a common CFC term.)

About the CFC

How It Works

For half a century, the U.S. government has sponsored the Combined Federal Campaign – the world's largest workplace fundraising drive.

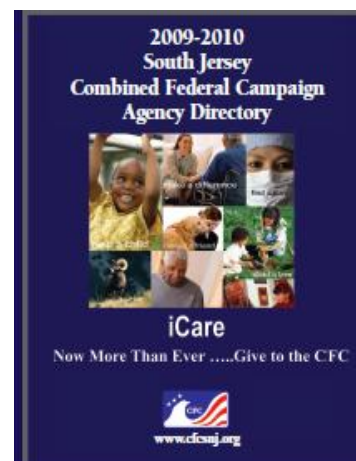

Each fall, beginning in September, federal employees – civilian, military and postal – are invited to support eligible national and local charities. Employees receive a directory that lists every eligible national and international organization, plus the many local groups that have qualified in a particular community. The size of the directory will vary, reflecting the number of local groups, but commonly the “book” runs to more than 100 pages.

Employees also receive a pledge card. They are advised that they can pick one or more groups from the list of qualified organizations and pledge to each one. About four million employees are invited to participate, and about one million employees pledge over a quarter billion dollars each year.

In recent years, the list of eligible organizations has also been published on CFC websites. On these sites, employees are invited to search for charities of interest and, in many communities, to pledge online. While the use of web-based tools is growing rapidly, most federal donors still use the printed directory and pledge card.

Federal donors will sometimes give a single gift, but normally employees authorize their federal payroll office to withhold a particular amount from each paycheck.

Administration

The CFC is administered nationwide and overseas – under the supervision of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM).

Government regulation assigns the day-to-day responsibility of running the CFC to community-based organizations called PCFOs – Principal Combined Fund Organizations. There are about 200 PCFOs. Some manage extensive portions of the country involving more than one state. Others manage more densely populated areas that cover a part of only one state. There is also a PCFO assigned to run the CFC overseas, reaching the many employees who are working in other countries.

Here is the OPM map of PCFO zones for 2010.

2010 PCFO zones—colors repeat, but do not indicate same PCFO

PCFOs screen the applications of local charities that wish to participate in their CFC zone. They also organize federal volunteers who represent the Campaign in the local offices of government agencies, mount kick-off events to promote the Campaign, print CFC directories for distribution to federal employees in their zones, distribute and collect pledge cards, tabulate pledge results, and help to transfer donated funds from employee paychecks to the benefiting organizations.

Each PCFO is itself a 501(c)(3) tax exempt organization. The PCFO must be audited annually and be governed by a board of directors.

Local federal volunteers oversee the PCFO in each zone of the CFC. These volunteers are organized as a local committee – the formal name is the Local Federal Coordinating Committee, or “LFCC.” The LFCC chooses the organization that will serve as PCFO, signs an agreement that authorizes the PCFO to operate within the CFC, approves an annual PCFO budget, and determines which local charity applicants meet CFC eligibility criteria.

CFC Eligibility

Organizations qualify for the CFC by meeting either national/international requirements or local requirements. If they submit a successful application, national/international organizations are eligible for pledges in all of the approximately 200 CFC administrative zones. Local organizations can receive pledges only in their home zone or in adjacent zones if they submit a successful application.

National/International Eligibility

To participate in the CFC at the national/international level, organizations must:

- Be 501(c)(3) tax exempt
- Provide services in at least 15 states or at least one foreign country
- Account for funds on an accrual basis in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP)
- Commission an annual audit by an independent certified public accountant, using generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS)
- Submit to the IRS an annual informational tax return unless IRS rules do not require the organization to file such
- Be governed by an active and responsible board whose members have no material conflict of interest and a majority of whom serve without compensation.

Local Eligibility

To participate in the CFC at the local level, organizations must:

- Be 501(c)(3) tax exempt
- Be located and active in the CFC zone to which it is applying, or in an adjacent zone
- Account for funds on an accrual basis in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) unless the organization has revenue below $100,000, in which case a simpler bookkeeping system is permitted
- Commission an annual audit by an independent certified public accountant, using generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS), unless the organization has revenue below $100,000, in which case an audit is not required
- Submit to the IRS an annual informational tax return unless IRS rules do not require the organization to file such
- Be governed by an active and responsible board whose members have no material conflict of interest and a majority of whom serve without compensation.

The above criteria are summary in nature; charities interested in applying to the CFC should consult with OPM, their local PCFO, or their federation (see below) for actual admission requirements.

Federations

Organizations wishing to be listed in the Charity Directory may apply directly to the CFC or through a government approved “federation.”

To apply directly to the program, a national or international organization sends its application materials to OPM in Washington DC. A local organization sends its material directly to the PCFO administering the zone the charity wishes to enter.

Alternatively, organizations may apply through a federation, of which there are many at both the national/international level and local level. Federations are 501(c)(3) tax exempt organizations, governed by boards of directors. They must be audited annually and satisfy eligibility criteria that individual applicants to the CFC must also meet. To qualify as a federation, an otherwise eligible organization must represent a minimum of 15 qualified CFC charities.

Here are the national and international federations that participated in the 2009 CFC:

International and National Federations

Aid for Africa	Global Impact
AIDS Global Action	Health First—America’s Charities
Aging and Disabilities Charities of America	Health & Medical Research Charities of America
America’s Charities	Hispanic United Fund

Do Unto Others*	Sports Charities USA
Earth Share	Wild Animals Worldwide
Educate America!*	Women, Children & Family Service Orgs*

* Names shortened here for space.

The CFC grants federation status to the American Red Cross and USO, though neither group has members.

Federations review charity applications to the CFC using the same criteria applied by OPM (national and international groups) or the PCFO (local groups). Federations may apply additional criteria. Once the federations have completed their review, they submit their list of recommended organizations to OPM or the PCFO which then selects a sample of the groups for a second review, to ensure that the government's eligibility criteria have been met.

Organizations that apply through a federation are listed with that federation in the CFC Charity Directory. Organizations that apply directly to the program (sending their application directly to OPM or a PCFO) are listed with similar organizations in an "Independent" section.

An organization that participates in the CFC through a federation will receive reports from its federation on how well it, the organization, did in the annual employee pledging. That organization's CFC donations will also flow through its federation (see How the Money Flows, below).

An organization that participates as an Independent group will receive pledge reports and donations directly from PCFOs.

Organizations do not have to affiliate with a federation to enter the CFC, but most do – for three key reasons.

1. Admissions support. Federations assist groups in preparing their applications. While eligibility requirements are public, preparing a successful application may not be intuitive. Federations can help applicants understand what is required and offer advice on how to resolve any weaknesses in the submitted material.
2. Increased visibility. Many federations – especially national/international federations – are organized around a specific theme. Thematic federations make it far easier for donors to find and support groups they are interested in. As noted, the CFC directory is quite lengthy, running to about 100 pages. Federations are usually listed at the front of these directories in the table of contents, so donors seeking to support a specific kind of work can easily find a focused list of relevant organizations.
3. Fiscal services. Federations substantially reduce the administrative burden of processing donations, especially for national/international organizations. In the CFC, the PCFOs report pledge results for each participating charity to that charity's federation or, if there is no federation, directly to the individual charity. Since there are about 200 administrative zones in the CFC, national and independent charities can find themselves overwhelmed by many reports and subsequent payments. Federations provide a unified point of contact, simplifying the flow of paper.

Federations are free to offer services beyond the processing of CFC applications, reporting of CFC pledge results, and the transfer of CFC donations. Some offer marketing support. Some facilitate participation in state, municipal and/or private sector workplace giving campaigns.

Placement in the Directory

As can happen with any lengthy list, groups that are listed at the front of the CFC Charity Directory appear to perform better. The government seeks to even out this effect and employs two techniques to minimize this advantage.

First, the government rotates the three main sections of the Directory. Here is the order of the Directory for three years. We highlight Local Organizations so that the reader can see how placement shifts:

2008	Local Organizations – front of Directory National Organizations – middle of the Directory International – back of the Directory
2009	International Organizations – front of Directory Local Organizations – middle of Directory National Organizations – back of the Directory
2010	National Organizations – front of Directory International Organizations – middle of the Directory Local Organizations – back of Directory

Second, within each main section of the Directory, the government randomizes the sequence of the federations. In the 2009 Directory, for example, here is the order of the international federations (note that it is not alphabetical):

1. Aid for Africa
2. International Independent Organizations
3. Global Impact
4. Do Unto Others
5. Israel Fund
6. Child Aid International
7. Latin America Fund

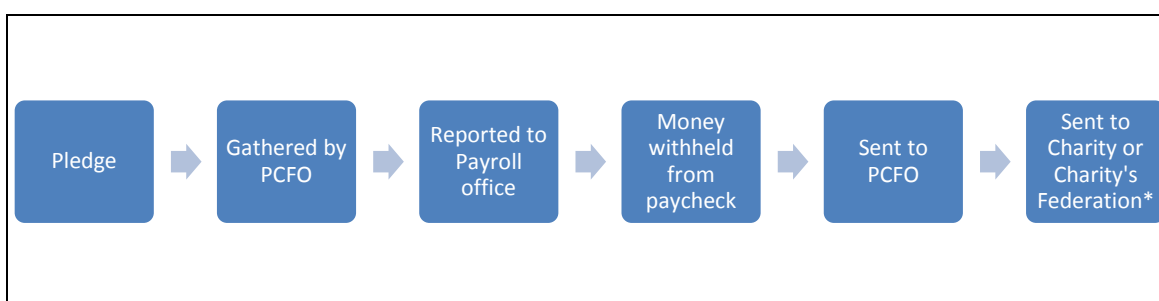

Again, this order changes annually.

Within a federation's own list, the order of the members is customarily alphabetical.

How the Money Flows

Donations to individual charities begin with employee pledges. As noted, employees are handed a CFC Charity Directory that lists all national, international and local charities that have been accepted into the CFC in a particular community. They also receive a pledge card.

Employees pick one or more groups they wish to support and pledge a particular amount to each group, to be paid out of each employee's regular paycheck. If an employee wishes to donate $100 to a local organization, for example, he or she designates that group on the pledge card, and the PCFO arranges for the money to be withheld throughout the following year, usually beginning in January.

How the Money Flows

* If a charity participated in the CFC by affiliating with a federation, local administrators send the donations to that federation which then forwards the funds to the designated group. Otherwise, the PCFO sends the donated funds directly to the benefiting charity.

CFC administrative costs are paid out of donated funds. Each PCFO advances money to cover the expense of the Campaign in its administrative zone, and then recoups that money from initial donations. Federations also generally advance the money to cover their own operation and then withhold funds from CFC donations as these arrive. If these funds are withheld from donations to member charities, as is common practice, they constitute a federation fee (though this is not the only way federations collect fees). Charities should consult directly with federations to learn their fee policies.

Project Design

The 1417 System

This phase of A Million Donors Choose focuses on the 2009 CFC because, at the time we began, it was the most recent campaign for which the PCFOs had fully tabulated Campaign pledges. In that Campaign, donors pledged over $280 million in support of almost 2,400 national and more than 20,000 local organizations.

Before discussing our own data collection for this project, we should describe the data that is collected by OPM after each Campaign.

The PCFOs are required to report to OPM the results of each year's Campaign in their individual CFC zone. These reports (Form 1417s) offer summary data concerning the number of employees who were invited to pledge, the number who did pledge, and the amounts pledged, broken down by federation. The government tallies this information and releases an aggregated 1417 report in the spring or early summer.

The 1417s do not show pledge results for individual charities, and the government does not request this information from PCFOs. Believing that much could be learned from the nationwide performance of individual charities in the CFC, we decided to request such reports. We were assured by OPM that this information is public.

This report provides information concerning the 2009 CFC. We will soon gather and release similar information for the 2010 CFC

How We Proceeded

More than half of the local administrators of the CFC have been kind enough to share with us their 2009 Campaign results. We asked that they report on how well every individual charity did in their CFC zone and send us this information in a format that would allow us to combine their data with reports from other PCFOs. We have entered all of the reports into a database.

As of now, we have reports from across the United States and overseas that represent over two thirds of the money pledged to national and international charities in the 2009 CFC. We are still receiving data and will publish a final 2009 early next year.

In addition to the PCFO data, we obtained standard information regarding each national and international charity from OPM. We added this standard information to the database which resulted in the following data fields for each charity:

- The name of the charity
- The unique five-digit code assigned by OPM to identify the charity
- The charity's federation if it is so affiliated
- The topical categories (e.g., arts, health, civil rights) that the charity selected from a government list to describe itself when it applied to the CFC (see below)
- The brief 25 word statement that the charity submitted to the CFC to describe its work, a statement that is published in the CFC Charity Directory
- The administrative overhead percentage calculated from figures found on the charity's informational tax return, a figure that is published in the CFC Charity Directory
- The charity's website address
- The total pledged to that charity.

To ensure that the data we received from the PCFOs was as accurate as possible, we checked it against the information reported to the government through the Form 1417 process.

Whether to Extrapolate from Interim Figures

With a sample of over two thirds of the nationwide total, the natural impulse is to extrapolate from the known figures to obtain a close approximation of the final 100 percent amount. Indeed, early in our work, we did project in this manner. We have found, however, that this practice can introduce significant error.

We discovered the errors by checking our extrapolated totals against the actual pledge totals for charities in the Workplace Giving Alliance family of federations. The Alliance is a collaboration of a dozen federations, nine of which serve about 300 CFC national and international CFC participants. Our administrative office is responsible for tallying pledges reported by all the PCFOs for these organizations, and reporting in turn to our members.

When we extrapolated from the figures provided to us by the original 18 PCFOs for this study, the result was reasonably close to the actual pledge numbers in most cases. But for 60 or so of our members, the variation was large enough to give us pause. For these groups, the variance between the extrapolated number and the actual final total was greater than 20 percent.

We recommend, therefore, that readers project with care. The figures published herein provide important insights into the patterns of donor pledging. One can easily see which topics receive the greatest interest from donors and which the least; one can see which charities do well and which do poorly. But, one should avoid projecting final tallies based on our sample, large though it is.

Naturally, as additional PCFOs provide pledge reports, the figures in hand are moving closer to 100 percent – and any projections will involve a smaller risk of error.

Project Results

This interim report reflects 2009 CFC data provided by 110 PCFOs. We are still receiving data from across the country and anticipate releasing a final printed report on the 2009 CFC by early 2012.

We are now also inviting PCFOs to share data for the 2010 CFC. We hope to release an initial report on the 2010 CFC also by early next year.

The sections below provide preliminary analysis of the 2009 data under the following headings:

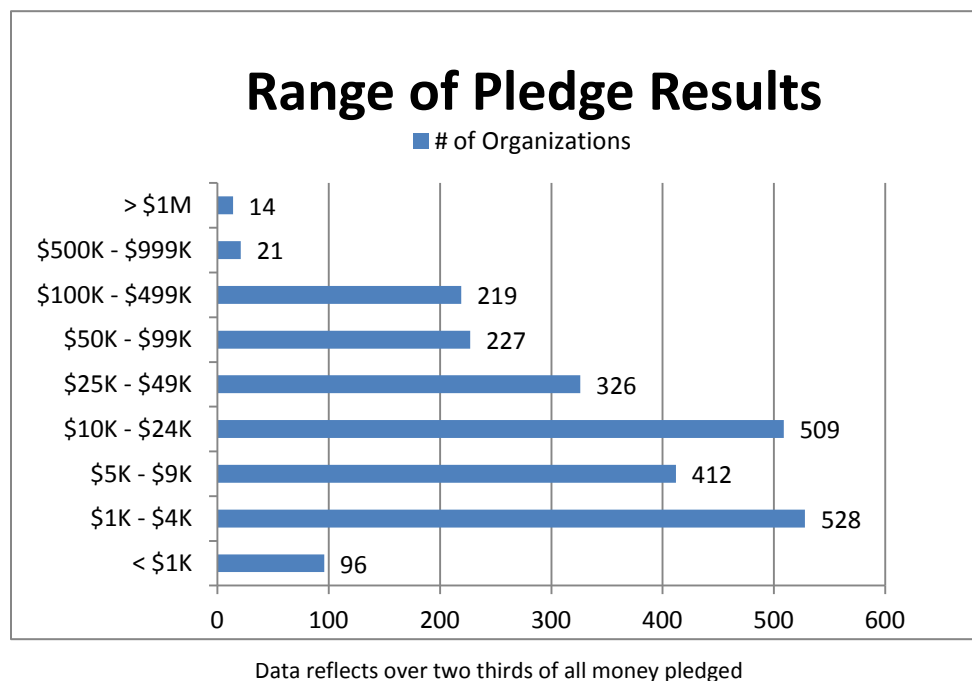

- Overview
- Top 100
- Results by Topic
- Impact of Charity Overhead

Overview

In 2009, over 20,000 local and almost 2,400 national and international organizations qualified for the CFC. About a million employees – civilian, military, and postal – pledged about $282 million.

This report focuses on the pledge results for all the participating national and international charities. Eventually, we hope to make available information on the performance of individual local charities, but that effort is beyond our scope at this time.

Here is a breakdown of how well the national and international charities performed in the 2009 CFC:

Note that these figures represent over two thirds of all the money pledged to national and international groups in 2009. As more data becomes available to us, the number of charities within the tiers identified above will change.

Though the data is incomplete, the table provides a valuable overview of the range of charity performance. As one can see, a relative handful of groups receive high levels of support.

The Top 100

Which group raises the most money from federal donors?

We now can answer that question for the 2009 CFC: St. Jude's Children Research Hospital. In the 2009 CFC, St. Jude's received donor pledges totaling $4,587,361 – in the 110 administrative zones whose data is reflected in this interim report. St. Jude's actually raised more, but, for now, we report the actual pledge information as received here.

The pledge figure for group 100 – Alzheimer's and Aging Research Center – was $226,400. Again, this number reflects the results from 110 CFC zones. Their actual pledge total was, of course, somewhat higher.

The Top 100 are listed in descending order, starting with the best performing charities. Also included are each charity's CFC number and federation affiliation, if the group was a member of a federation. We have shortened some of the federation names, to save space.

Above figures reflect pledges in 110 PCFO zones and represent over two thirds of nationwide totals for national and international groups.

A striking aspect of the 2009 CFC pledge results is the large share of donor support that goes to relatively few top-performing charities. The organizations listed above together received about half of the total pledged that year for all charities. If one expands the list to the top 500 charities, they received about four fifths of the total pledged that year for all charities.

We do not suggest that donors were only interested in a relative handful of organizations. The charities that performed less well still received tens of millions of dollars in pledges. There are, nonetheless, important aspects of CFC operations that are tied to this distribution of pledges. For example, PCFOs recoup their CFC administrative costs by withholding a percentage of donations. This means that the bulk of these costs are covered by the better performing organizations.

There is also the issue of feedback: Will employees be affected by knowing how well groups did in prior Campaigns? Some donors might wish to support the “winners.” Other donors might wish to support groups that did relatively less well.

Results by Topic

When organizations apply to the CFC, they are asked to describe their services by selecting from 26 topical categories offered by the government. While it is not clear whether many donors search for charities by these categories, they do provide a useful means for analyzing pledge results to understand the extent of donor interest in any particular cause.

Note: The government invites charities to select up to three categories. A group might select category H (Medical Research) first, Category G (Disease, Disorder, Medicinal Disciplines) second, and Category B (Educational Institutions & Related Activities) third. In the CFC Charity Directory, all three categories would be included in the organization's listing: H, G, B. Many charities select only one or two categories. For our initial analysis, presented here, we have used only the first category.

Below are the results organized by the total pledged to each topical category. Note that the figures reflect the amounts reported to us by 110 PCFOs. The final totals will be higher, but the share of the total should remain about the same.

Now, Public Safety, Disaster Preparedness & Relief is the highest performing category, followed by Medical Research.

Impact of Charity Overhead

Each organization's listing in the CFC Charity Directory contains a number the government calls the Administrative and Fundraising Rate (AFR). It is intended to help donors understand the administrative overhead of participating charities. When organizations apply to the CFC, they are required to calculate this overhead using figures from the group's most recent IRS Form 990, according to the formula below.

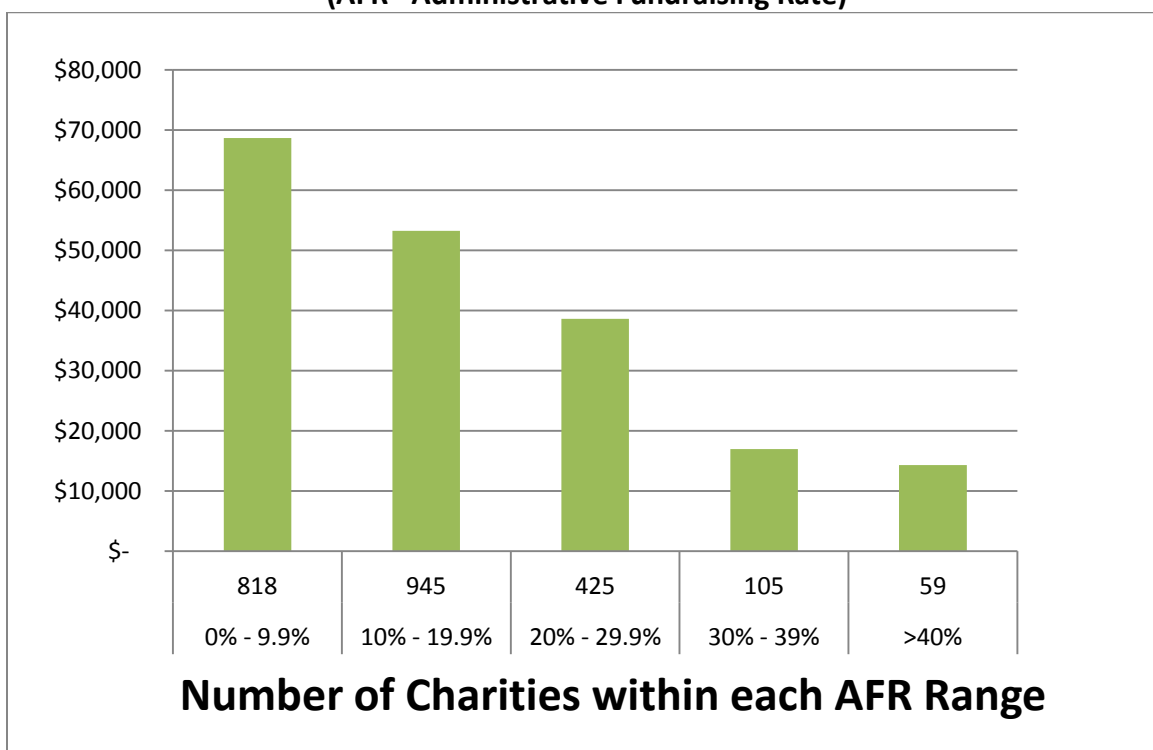

$$(\text{Fundraising Expenses} + \text{Management Expenses}) \div \text{Revenue} = \text{CFC Administrative Overhead \%}$$

Note that the formula does not use total expense as the denominator. The government has long felt that dividing by the revenue would generate a more useful figure.

The administrative overhead figure is printed in the CFC Charity Directory in the paragraph following the name of the organization.

The 2009 pledge results show that many donors appear to take note of the administrative overhead figures. Charities with the lowest AFR (under 10 percent) received the highest average level of support: $68,662. As the table below shows, as the AFR rises, the average declines. The table also shows how many groups fell within each percentage tier.

What's Next in Our Study

A Million Donors Choose is a multi-phase project that will present and analyze data from CFC cycles. This interim report reflects 2009 CFC data provided by 110 PCFOs. We are still receiving data from other PCFOs and expect to publish a final 2009 report by early 2012.

We have also begun to gather and analyze 2010 CFC data. We hope to make this information available by early next year.

In the months ahead, as we gather broader data covering more PCFO zones and, ultimately, more years, we hope to design analytical tools to shed light on such questions as:

- The effect of placement in the CFC Charity Directory on a charity's pledges
- The usefulness of advertising
- The usefulness of participating in kick-off events
- The role of names in attracting donors
- The way the Campaign is structured and paid for
- The role of federations
- How giving varies in different departments of the government and different sections of the country
- Giving patterns for local charities.

Most important, we seek to use information as a tool to engage donors so that they will renew and expand their commitment to the CFC.

We invite other CFC stakeholders around the country to join us in shaping this project. We welcome conversations with LFCCs and PCFOs and others involved in administering the CFC so that we can learn what issues they believe we all should be examining.

We invite local Campaigns to send us their information for 2009 and 2010 if they have not already done so. Please contact us for precise instructions, but generally we seek information in a spreadsheet format. The greater the detail you can offer, the stronger the insights we can all develop.

Appendix:

Results for All Charities

The following table lists every national and international organization that participated in the 2009 CFC. Again, the data is from 110 administrative zones representing over two thirds of the total amount raised that year. The list is in alphabetical order. Names of some organizations have been shortened for reasons of space.
