Dear Colleague:

We are pleased to release our annual report on donor preferences in the Combined Federal Campaign, sharing here the results of the 2016 CFC and comparing them with the 2014 and 2015 campaigns.

For more than 50 years, the CFC has been an important source of funding for thousands of national and local charities. Each year, federal employees are invited to offer their support to groups that have been screened on the reach of their services, their governance structure, and their financial management.

The campaign is undergoing enormous changes as the federal government seeks to streamline its operation. The changes come at a time when the CFC's results are declining. In 2009, the campaign generated pledges totaling more than $282 million. In 2016, about $167 million was pledged.

Starting with the 2017 CFC, the Office of CFC is operating under new regulations that vastly change the structure and administration of the campaign. The Workplace Giving Alliance published a report that explored the transition from the old campaign structure to the new, entitled The New CFC: 2017 Admissions, Reporting and Structural Changes, Revised December 2016. This report, among others, can be accessed through our website (www.wg-alliance.org/research). The report you are now reading incorporates and updates our work from last December.

The challenges facing the CFC are clear to all who have been involved in its operation, but we remain optimistic that this program will continue to make a valuable contribution to the charity world.

The CFC provides a unique window into donor interests. We are pleased that we are able to gather pledge data from across the country, and to report results to donors and charities alike.

About the CFC

The CFC is changing in many ways. To place pledge results in the context of those changes, the first section of this report describes the campaign's operations for 2016 and earlier years. The second section presents data from the 2016 campaign, along with data from the 2014 and 2015 campaigns for comparison. The third section describes many of the key operational changes now being implemented across the CFC. Finally, as an Appendix, we present the 2016 pledges results for all participating national and international charities.

How the Campaign Works

For more than half a century, the U.S. government has sponsored the Combined Federal Campaign – the world's largest workplace fundraising drive.

Each fall, beginning in September, federal employees – civilian, military and postal – are invited to support eligible national and local charities. Employees are directed to either a printed or digital list of every eligible national and international organization, plus the many local groups that have qualified in a particular community.

The CFC operates through zones. (Starting with the 2017 CFC, the boundaries will be determined by the federal government.) Zones vary in size, from metropolitan regions to multiple states.

In the 2016 CFC, national and international organizations accounted for about 2,600 of the approximately 19,000 total participating charities; the rest were local organizations. The size of each local list varied from zone to zone, reflecting the number of charities local to that area. The printed directory for each zone often ran more than 100 pages.

In the 2016 CFC, employees also received a pledge card, or, depending on the zone, had the option of using an online system to make their pledges. They were advised to pick one or more groups from the list of qualified organizations and pledge to each one. About four million employees were invited to participate, and hundreds of thousands of employees did so. Federal donors sometimes gave a single gift by writing a check or offering cash, but normally employees authorized their federal payroll office to withhold a particular amount from each paycheck throughout the following calendar year.

Administration

The CFC is administered nationwide and overseas under the supervision of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM).

Historically, government regulation assigned some of the administration of the campaign to community-based organizations called PCFOs: Principal Combined Fund Organizations. In 2016 and earlier, PCFOs organized federal volunteers who represented the campaign in the local offices of government agencies, mounted kick-off events to promote the campaign, printed CFC directories for distribution to federal employees in their zones, distributed and collected pledge cards, tabulated pledge results, and helped to transfer donated funds from employee paychecks to the benefiting organizations.

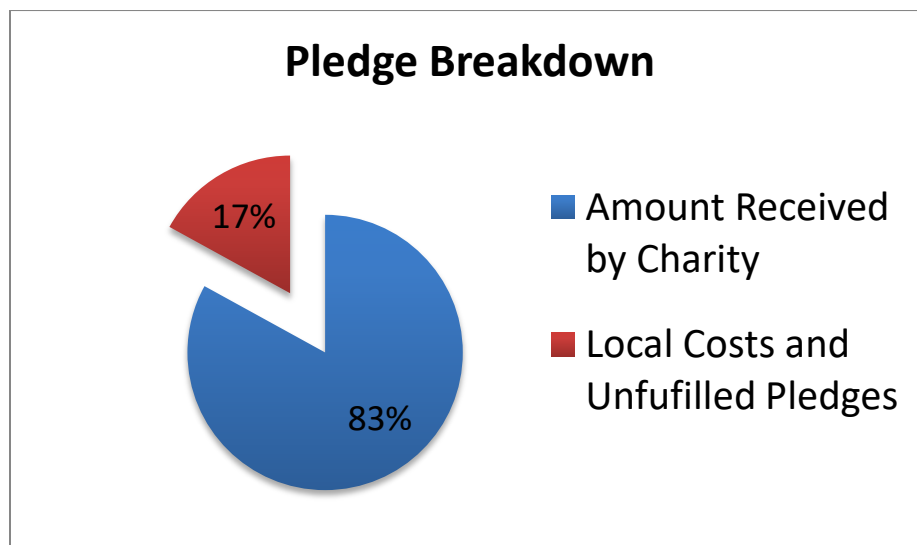

PCFOs conducted these various administrative functions within a given geographical area – what we call a CFC “zone.” Over the years, the CFC has been consolidating zones. In the 2016 CFC there were 123, down from 147 in the 2015 CFC.

Campaign Costs

Under the administrative system still in place for the 2016 CFC, PCFOs advanced the cost of running the campaign in each local zone. Nationwide, such costs in 2016 represented an average of about 15% of the amount pledged, according to reports published by OPM.

2016 CFC pledges have, of course, been converting into actual payroll donations throughout 2017. PCFOs have been distributing these donations to participating charities – after they “recovered” their costs from the year before. PCFOs have also been taking into account unfulfilled pledges from workers who have left their jobs, retired, died, or in some other way been unable to keep their promise to donate. Nationwide, this non-fulfillment will equal about 2% of the pledge total.

Thus, for the 2016 campaign, donations received by benefitting charities will amount to less than the amount pledged – by about 17%. If we apply these average figures to a hypothetical charity with pledges totaling $10,000 nationwide, the charity would ultimately receive about $8,300. If the charity had affiliated with a federation, it would likely pay a fee to that federation as well.

CFC Eligibility

Organizations qualify for the CFC by meeting either national/international requirements or local requirements. Below is a summary of the criteria that were in effect for the 2016 campaign:

National/International Eligibility

To participate in the 2016 CFC at the national/international level, an organization was required to:

- Be 501(c)(3) tax exempt,
- Provide services in at least 15 states or at least one foreign country,
- Account for funds on an accrual basis in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP),
- Commission an annual audit by an independent certified public accountant, using generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS),
- Submit to the IRS an annual informational “tax return” unless IRS rules did not require the organization to file such, and
- Be governed by an active and responsible board whose members had no material conflict of interest and a majority of whom served without compensation.

Local Eligibility

To participate in the 2016 CFC at the local level, an organization was required to:

- Be 501(c)(3) tax exempt,
- Be located and active in the CFC zone to which it was applying,
- Account for funds on an accrual basis in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) unless the organization had revenue below $100,000, in which case a simpler bookkeeping system was permitted,
- Commission an annual audit by an independent certified public accountant, using generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS), unless the organization had revenue below $100,000, in which case an audit was not required,
- Submit to the IRS an annual informational “tax return” unless IRS rules did not require the organization to file such, and
- Be governed by an active and responsible board whose members had no material conflict of interest and a majority of whom served without compensation.

Given these criteria, charities submitted the following items for review:

- An application form (often called the “Certifications”),
- A letter issued by the IRS affirming 501(c)(3) status,
- A description of their services (“Attachment A”),
- An IRS Form 990 or Pro Forma 990, and
- Audited Financial Statements (waived for local charities with revenue below $100,000).

Federations

Charities may choose to enter the campaign independently, or affiliate with a federation. Federations are 501(c)(3) tax exempt organizations, each governed by a board of directors. They must be audited annually and satisfy most of the same eligibility criteria met by individual applicants to the CFC. To qualify as a federation, an otherwise eligible organization must represent a minimum of 15 qualified CFC charities in addition to itself.

Federations review charity applications to the CFC using the same criteria applied by OPM for national, international, and local charities. Federations may apply additional criteria. Once the federations have completed their reviews, they submit their recommended organizations to CFC administrators who then conduct second reviews to ensure that CFC eligibility criteria have been met.

To apply independently to the 2016 campaign (meaning not in affiliation with a federation), a national or international organization sent its application materials directly to OPM in Washington DC. A local organization seeking to participate in the 2016 CFC independently sent its material directly to the PCFO administering the zone the charity wished to enter.

A Million Donors Choose

Organizations that applied through a federation were listed with that federation in the 2016 CFC charity directory. Organizations that applied directly to the program (sending their applications to OPM or a PCFO) were listed in an “Independent” section.

An organization that participated in the CFC through a federation received reports from its federation on how well the organization did in the 2016 pledging. That organization’s CFC donations have been flowing through its federation.

An organization that participated as an Independent group in the 2016 CFC received pledge reports directly from PCFOs. They are currently receiving donations tied to the 2016 CFC from the PCFOs.

Charities do not have to affiliate with a federation to enter the CFC, but most have done so – for three key reasons.

1. Admissions support. Federations assist groups in preparing their applications. While eligibility requirements are public, preparing a successful application may not be intuitive. Federations can help applicants understand what is required and offer advice on how to resolve any weaknesses in the submitted material.
2. Increased visibility. Many federations – especially national/international federations – are organized around a specific theme. Thematic federations make it easier for donors to find and support groups they are interested in. As noted, the printed CFC directory is quite lengthy, running to about 100 pages. Federations are usually listed at the front of these directories in a table of contents, so donors seeking to support a specific kind of work can easily find a focused list of relevant organizations. Federation names – as themes – may also play a role in donor search through the campaign’s online system: If a donor is looking for environmental groups, the online system will also show federations that represent such groups as well as their members.
3. Fiscal services. Federations substantially reduce the administrative burden of processing pledge reports and donations. Federations provide a unified point of contact, and schedule distributions throughout the year, which thereby simplifies the flow of information.

Federations are free to offer services beyond the processing of CFC applications, the reporting of CFC pledge results, and the transfer of CFC donations. Some offer marketing support. Some facilitate participation in state, municipal and/or private sector workplace giving campaigns. Some offer other services beyond workplace giving campaigns.

Placement in the Printed Directory

Charity placement in the printed directory has a notable impact on donor choice. As can happen with any lengthy list, groups listed at the front of the book appear to perform better. The government seeks to even out this effect through two techniques, described on the following page.

A Million Donors Choose

First, the government rotates the three main sections of the directory. Below, we show the order of the directory for the three years included in this report. We highlight International Organizations so that the reader can see how placement shifts.

|-------------|--|
| 2016 | National Organizations – front of the directory International Organizations – middle of the directory Local Organizations – back of the directory |
| 2015 | International Organizations – front of the directory Local Organizations – middle of the directory National Organizations – back of the directory |
| 2014 | Local Organizations – front of the directory National Organizations – middle of the directory International Organizations – back of the directory |

Second, within each main section of the directory, the government randomizes the sequence of the federations. Below is the order of the international federations for three years (note that it is not alphabetical). We highlight one federation, Aid for Africa, to show its change of position over the years.

| Order | 2016 | 2015 | 2014 |
|-------|-------------------------|-------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 | Global Impact | Global Impact | Build a Better World |
| 2 | Intl Independent Orgs | Child Aid International | Jewish Aid Worldwide |
| 3 | Aid For Africa | Build a Better World | Intl Independent Orgs |
| 4 | Child Aid International | Charity Without Borders | Aid for Africa |
| 5 | Build A Better World | Intl Independent Orgs | Global Impact |
| 6 | Charity Without Borders | Jewish Aid Worldwide | Charity Without Borders |
| 7 | Jewish Aid Worldwide | Aid for Africa | Child Aid International |
| 8 | Haiti Aid | | |

Within a federation’s own list, the order of its members is customarily alphabetical.

Online search in the CFC

Searching for a charity within the printed charity guide is traditional and familiar. There is a table of contents, in which federations are listed. If donors are interested in “Medical Research Charities,” they flip to a specific page and find the 25 or so charities listed under the heading of this federation. Donors can also search the alphabetic index for a specific charity. Or they can simply flip through the printed book and browse eligible charities.

In more recent years, the government has caught up with the digital age and donors can now also search for charities using an online search tool. In the 2014, 2015 and 2016 CFCs, each PCFO managed its own online search. In a 2013 report on the topic of online search in the CFC, the Workplace Giving Alliance looked at the tremendous variance of results when searching for charities using different online search tools. We expressed our concern that online search in the CFC was being poorly managed.

A Million Donors Choose

As illustration, we noted that searching for “art” resulted in a long list of environmental organizations, since the word “art” appears in the word “earth.” Similarly, when searching for “cat,” organizations appeared that worked in the field of “education.” Readers interested in this and other difficulties with the CFC’s online search system may find our report, Helping a Million Donors Choose: Online Search in the CFC, at www.wg-alliance.org/research.

We will return to online search later in this report.

In the pages that follow, we examine the CFC performance of the 2,600 or so national and international organizations that participated in the 2016 CFC. We also reflect data from the 2015 and 2014 campaigns for comparison.

We look at the pledge results for individual charities from year to year, highlight swings in performance both upwards and downwards, analyze trends in donor giving by topic, and consider the impact of charity overhead.

2016 Pledge Results

Overview

This report includes pledge results from three CFC cycles: 2014, 2015, and 2016. In total, 96 local campaign administrators (PCFOs) contributed data for at least one of these years.

| CFC Year | # PCFOs in Our Sample | Share of Total Campaign |
|----------|-----------------------|-------------------------|
| 2014 | 86 | 76.6% |
| 2015 | 53 | 61.9% |
| 2016 | 57 | 61.8% |

The pledge figures in this report have been extrapolated to 100 percent to allow year-over-year comparisons.

As context, here are summary figures released by the Office of Personnel Management for the last three campaigns.

Source: OPM 1417 annual reports

As the table shows, the total number of participating donors, the total number of donors solicited, and the participation rate have all been on a steady decline since 2014. It is difficult to pinpoint the precise reasons for declining campaign participation, but one factor may be a shift in the mechanisms donors are using. More and more donors, especially millennials, are giving directly to charities online.

Another issue that may be affecting the numbers is younger donors' desire to give time rather than money. Picking up on this shift, the 2017 CFC for the first time will offer donors the option to pledge hours of volunteer time. The 2017 CFC will also introduce a centralized online giving platform that will be discussed later in this report.

Charity Participation

One trend worth noting concerns the number of charities participating in the CFC. With pledge totals and donor participation in decline, the number of national and international charities choosing to enter the campaign has also dropped in the last two years. We anticipate a sharp drop in the number of participating charities in the 2017 CFC due to regulatory changes that will be discussed later in this report. The chart below shows the number of participating national and international charities from 2003 to 2016.

In the remainder of this report, we focus on the pledge results for the national and international charities that participated in the 2016 campaign with comparisons to their performance in 2014 and 2015.

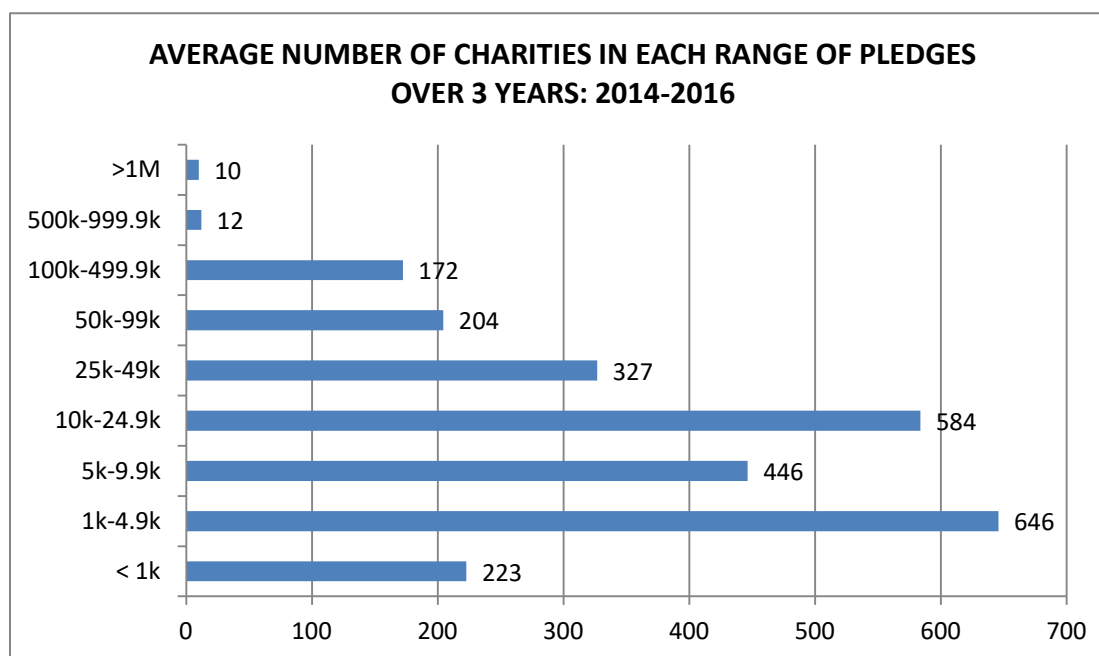

The sections below provide analysis of the data under the following headings:

- Charities by Range of their Pledge Results
- Top 100
- Results by Topic
- Impact of Charity Overhead

Charities by Range of their Pledge Results

We start with a table that shows charity performance by pledge range. We have used data for 2014-16 to obtain these results.

As one can see, on average 10 national and international charities received more than $1 million in pledges over the last three years (2014-16). At the other end of the range, 223 organizations on average received less than $1,000.

Top 100

We present below results for the 100 national and international organizations receiving the highest pledges in the 2016 CFC. The pledge figures have been extrapolated and rounded to the nearest $100.

The amounts actually received by the charities will be less, primarily reflecting three factors:

- The amount withheld by the PCFOs to cover local administrative costs. Nationwide, this equaled roughly 15 percent of the pledges in the 2016 campaign.
- Pledges that are not fulfilled. Nationwide, this equaled roughly 2 percent of total pledges.
- The amount withheld by a charity's federation. This will vary widely, reflecting the policies of individual federations. Charities participating independently will not be subject to this last cost.

In the 2016 CFC, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital received the highest pledge total: an estimated $7,097,200. The American National Red Cross was in second place with an estimated $2,103,800, and Doctors Without Borders held third place, receiving an estimated $2,025,200. The last charity within the Top 100 was EOD Warrior Foundation, which received an estimated $173,400.

A Million Donors Choose

The first table below lists the Top 100 in descending pledge order. Also included are each charity's CFC number and federation affiliation, if the group was a member of a federation in the 2016 CFC. We have shortened some of the charity and federation names to save space. For purposes of comparison, we list to the far right of the chart each charity's rank for 2015 and 2014. The pledge figures have been extrapolated and rounded to the nearest $100.

| 2016 Rank | Charity Name | Federation Affiliation | 5-Digit Code | Estimated Pledges | 2015 Rank | 2014 Rank |

Our next table displays the pledge totals for the Top 100, organized by federation. The reader will see that 89 of the top 100 charities were affiliated with a federation. The American Red Cross and USO participated in the CFC on their own, with the visibility of a federation but without members.

Community Health Charities had 15 members in the top 100, receiving over $12.7 million in pledges. Federations, including Community Health Charities, have additional members, of course. Our table is limited to the Top 100. Figures for total pledges have been rounded to reflect extrapolation.

We next present a table that compares the 2016 pledges totals to the 2015 totals. The list is limited to the Top 100 charities.

As has been widely reported, total pledges in the 2016 CFC were below the total for the 2015 CFC; the actual drop was 6 percent. An organization that saw its own pledge total drop by less than 6 percent effectively performed better than the CFC as a whole. We have, therefore, broken the table into three sections:

- Organizations that saw their 2016 pledge total actually rise in comparison to 2015
- Organizations that saw their 2016 pledge total drop – but by an amount less than 6 percent
- Organizations that saw their 2016 pledge total drop by 6 percent or more.

The figures have been rounded to the nearest $100, emphasizing the process of extrapolation. One Top 100 organization in the 2016 CFC did not participate in 2015, so the list below shows only 99 groups.

A Million Donors Choose

The 2017 presidential election took place during the 2016 CFC solicitation period, which ran until December 31, 2016. Federal donors, therefore, had nearly 2 months to give after knowing the results of the 2016 election. The table above suggests federal donors responded to the election of Donald Trump. Organizations focused on civil rights and environmental protection saw some of the biggest increases in pledges in 2016, presumably reflecting a perception that these topics would lack support from the new administration. Pledges to the ACLU rose about 400% from the prior year's CFC, and Southern Poverty Law Center saw an increase of nearly 350%. The third biggest gainer was the Natural Resources Defense Council, with pledges increasing by 180% from the prior year. Planned Parenthood, the Sierra Club, and the National Park Foundation also saw significant increases in donations.

The three charities in the top 100 that saw the sharpest decline in donations during the 2016 CFC had one commonality: The term "Wounded Warrior" was within their names. The sharpest decline was experienced by the Wounded Warrior Project, the largest of the three, with pledges dropping by more than fifty percent. It is possible that negative coverage of this group in 2016 substantially undercut its brand. The other two organizations that saw a significant drop in pledges were not affiliated with Wounded Warrior Project. However, they seem to have suffered a similar drop in donations in the wake of the negative news.

Results by Topic

When organizations apply to the CFC, they are asked to describe their services by selecting from 26 topical categories offered by the government. These categories are based on the National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities (NTEE) system, which is used by the IRS to classify nonprofit organizations. While it is not clear whether many donors search for charities by these categories, they do provide a useful tool to help understand the extent of donor interest in any particular cause.

The CFC invites applicant charities to select up to three categories. A group might select category H (Medical Research) first, Category G (Voluntary Health Associations & Medical Disciplines) second, and Category B (Education) third. In the CFC Charity Directory, all three categories would be included in the organization's listing: H, G, B. Many charities select only one or two categories.

Our next table shows the performance of charities in each category on average – i.e., the total amount pledged divided by the number of benefiting groups. The three right-hand columns compare the ranking for the last three years. Big shifts in rankings from one year to the next may reflect a category change for a high-performing organization rather than a major difference in donor sentiment.

Impact of Charity Overhead

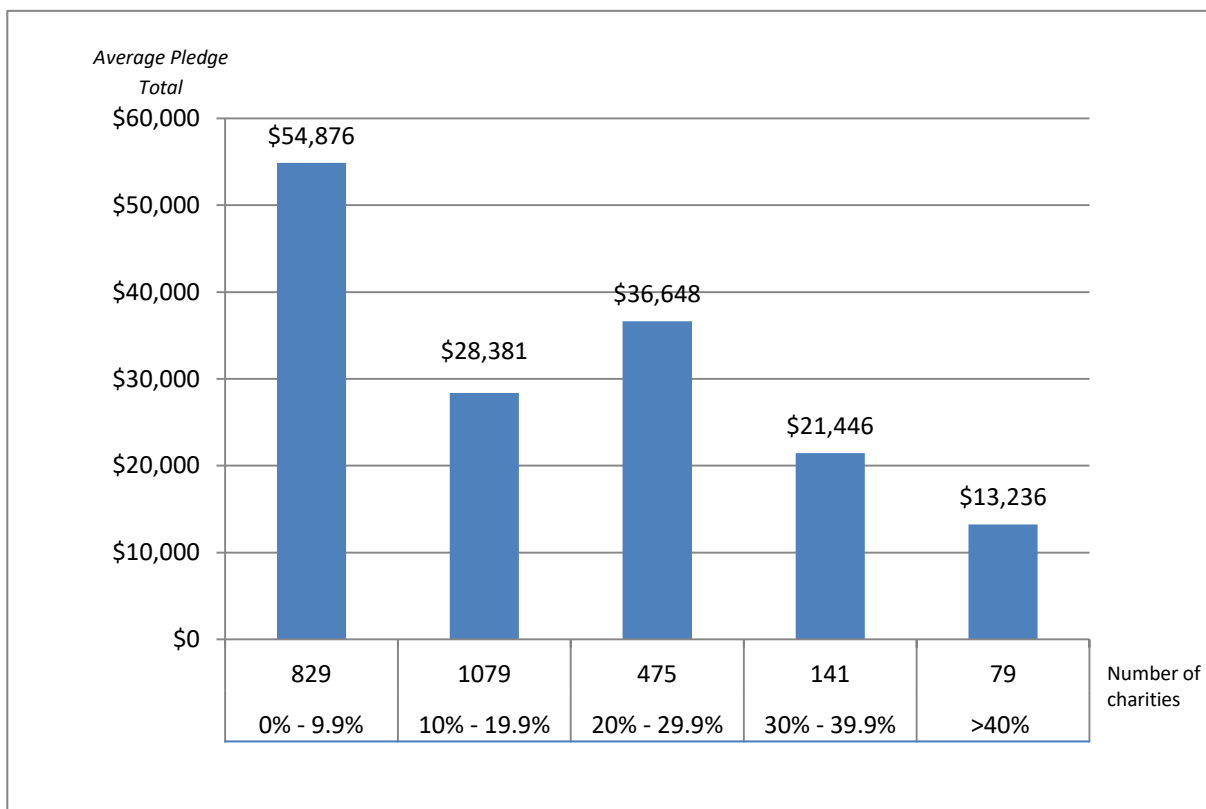

Each organization's listing in the CFC Charity Directory contains a number the government calls the Administrative and Fundraising Rate (AFR). It is intended to help donors understand the administrative overhead of participating charities. When organizations applied to the CFC, they were required to calculate this overhead using figures from the group's most recent IRS Form 990, using the formula below:

$$(\text{Fundraising Expenses} + \text{Management Expenses}) \div \text{Revenue} = \text{CFC Administrative Overhead \%}$$

Note that the formula does not use total expense as the denominator, as is more commonly done. OPM has long felt that dividing by the revenue generates a more useful figure. Donors can find the administrative overhead figure in the CFC Charity List (printed or online version) in the paragraph following the name of the organization.

In past campaigns, there has been a clear relationship of charities with the lowest overheads receiving the highest average pledge totals. In 2016, charities in the 20-20.9% range disrupted the trend line and received more donations on average than charities in the 10-19.9% range. If the top three performing charities in the 20-29% range (all nationally known brands) are removed, the table returns to a linear curve. This suggests that while donors still take note of overhead figures, they may be willing to overlook a higher overhead if a charity has a well-known and trusted brand.

The CFC in 2017 and Beyond

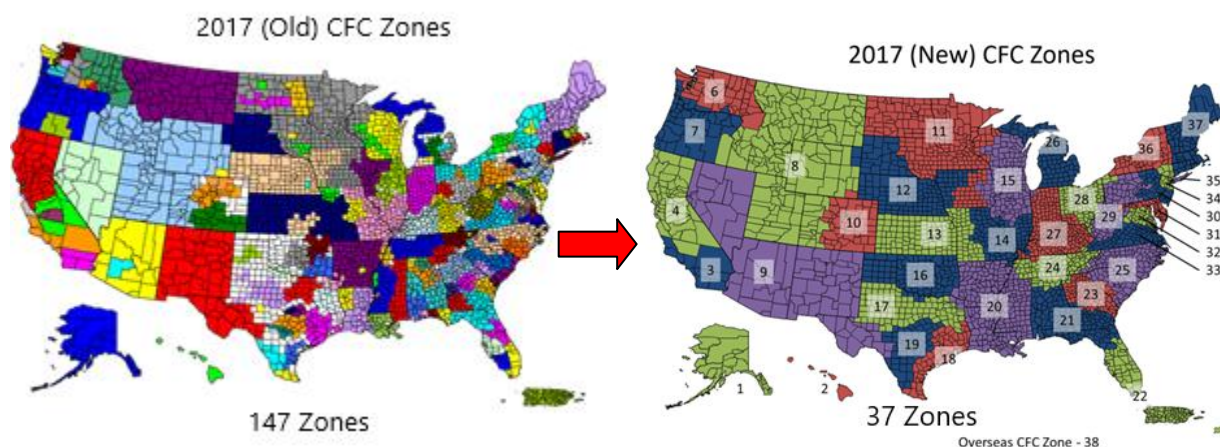

The 2017 CFC is the first campaign to be administered under new regulations published by OPM on April 16, 2014. The new regulations underpin numerous changes to the structure and operation of the program, including:

- A sharp reduction in the number of CFC administrative zones.
- The elimination of PCFOs (entities that served as PCFOs are still charged with distributing funds from earlier campaigns).
- The creation of a Central Campaign Administrator, to assume many of the functions formerly performed by PCFOs.
- The creation of Outreach Coordinators, overseen by local federal volunteers, to perform the marketing functions previously handled by the PCFOs.
- Expansion of the pool of potential donors to include federal retirees and inclusion of volunteer time within the CFC.
- A simplification of eligibility requirements so that local and national/international organizations have the same audit and tax return requirements.
- Cyclical application requirements so that a charity submits a full application only once every three years. The other two years the charity submits an abbreviated application.
- A new fee structure, substantially changing the way campaign costs are recovered. In addition, federations can no longer withhold funds from charity distributions.

Each of these changes is discussed below.

Fewer Administrative Zones

OPM has substantially reduced the number of administrative zones, from 123 in the 2016 CFC to 37 in the 2017 campaign. OPM has for years been pressing toward a nationwide system involving fewer zones, but prior regulations constrained the agency in what it could dictate in this regard. The regulations published in 2014 give OPM the clear authority to draw the boundaries of CFC zones as it wishes, and this marked consolidation is the result.

The 2017 map displays 37 zones, despite Overseas being labeled 38. Zone 5 has been merged with another zone and does not appear on this map.

A Million Donors Choose

Fewer zones will, naturally, translate into administrative efficiencies. We flag two other possible consequences.

First, the consolidation of zones will affect local charities since geographically larger zones will translate into more “local” donors. For example, a local Massachusetts charity will see its home zone expand from a part of its home state to all of New England. The printed charity guide will now show local groups from across the expanded region, not just a portion of Massachusetts. In effect, to the degree to which donors employ the printed charity guide to look for groups to support, the pool of federal employees seeing the name of the Massachusetts charity will be larger. On the other hand, the pool of charities deemed local in that New England directory will also be larger. (It is worth noting that the growing use of online giving increasingly allows donors to search for and give to any CFC-participating charity in the United States.)

Second, the consolidation of zones may reduce the effectiveness of communications with donors. A zone that previously served only a metropolitan area – such as greater Boston – now extends to six states. There are some concerns that face-to-face outreach to potential donors may suffer as a result.

The Central Campaign Administrator (CCA)

OPM has eliminated PCFOs, starting with the 2017 campaign. The entities that served as PCFOs are still charged with distributing funds flowing from earlier CFC cycles.

Many of the administrative functions formerly handled by PCFOs are shifting to a new Central Campaign Administrator (CCA). Beginning with the 2017 CFC, OPM has contracted with the Give Back Foundation, itself a tax exempt not-for-profit, to function as the CCA for the next 5 years. The CCA is tasked with:

1. Operating a centralized online application system for national, international and local charities,
2. Operating a centralized website through which donors can search for CFC approved charities and pledge to them,
3. Forwarding employee pledges to federal payroll offices, and
4. Distributing donated funds and donor names to federations and independent charities.

The online application system was launched late in 2016 – for the 2017 CFC. National, international and local groups that applied directly to the CFC submitted their material directly to the new CCA site. Charities that applied in affiliation with a federation submitted their material to that federation. Each federation subsequently submitted to the CCA site those applications which it, the federation, deemed eligible for the upcoming campaign.

OPM has not completed the review of applications for the 2017 CFC. When OPM is done, it will release the list of the approved groups which will also be published on the CCA’s website. Federal employees will be able to search for charities and designate their pledges online.

OPM has allowed for a phase-out of the printed directory and printed pledge card. These will no longer be used in five years.

A Million Donors Choose

Outreach Coordinators and Local Federal Volunteers

Outreach Coordinators will assume many of the marketing tasks previously performed by PCFOs, including:

1. Organizing CFC promotional events and in other ways encouraging employees to become involved in the campaign,
2. Distributing printed CFC charity guides, and
3. Processing pledge cards when donors use paper.

Outreach Coordinators will also release information concerning campaign promotional events to independent charities and to federations; federations will continue to be responsible for passing these notices along to their members.

In the past, PCFOs were tax-exempt not-for-profit organizations. Outreach Coordinators can be for-profit or not-for-profit.

Local federal volunteers will oversee the activities of Outreach Coordinators in each campaign zone. Members of these Local Federal Coordinating Committees, or “LFCCs,” will also assist OPM in the review of applications.

New Donors and New Ways of Giving

For some years, the government has sought to allow retired federal employees to participate in the CFC. OPM has indicated that this will begin in the 2017 campaign.

As in past years, active employees will have the option of giving through the traditional payroll deduction method, but they will also be able to give via credit/debit cards as well as e-checks. Cash gifts will no longer be accepted.

The CFC will also introduce a method by which federal employees can report their support of charity through the donation of their time. We have no details on this last item, but it is possible that employees will donate less money as they report their gifts of time.

CFC Eligibility

For the 2017 CFC, eligibility criteria changed. Starting with this year, charities – whether local, national, or international – have been treated alike with regard to most aspects of the application. All charities were required to:

- Be 501(c)(3) tax exempt,
- Account for funds on an accrual basis in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) – if total revenue was above $100K,
- Commission an annual CPA audit (if total revenue was at or above $250K) or review (if total revenue was at or above $100K but below $250K); if the organization had revenue below $100,000, neither an audit or review was required,
- Submit to the IRS an annual informational “tax return” unless IRS rules did not require the organization to file such, and

A Million Donors Choose

- Be governed by an active and responsible board whose members had no material conflict of interest and a majority of whom served without compensation.

Additionally, an organization applying at the local level had to be located and active in the CFC zone to which it applied, and demonstrate such by listing services provided in 2016. Organizations applying at the national/international level had to demonstrate that qualifying services were provided in at least 15 U.S. states or at least one foreign country within the calendar years 2014, 2015 and 2016.

Application Components

When a charity now applies to the CFC, it must first determine whether it needs to complete a “full” or an “abbreviated” application. A full application is required only once every three years. OPM divided the pool of 2017 charity applicants into thirds. A charity required to submit a full application (all items) in 2017 will be able to submit an abbreviated application in 2018 and 2019. In 2020, that charity will again have to submit a full application.

A full application consists of the following items:

- an application form (often called the “Certifications”),
- a letter issued by the IRS affirming 501(c)(3) status,
- a description of the applicant’s services (“Attachment A”),
- an IRS Form 990 or Pro Forma 990, and
- audited financial statements (waived for smaller charities).

An abbreviated application consists of only the following:

- an application form (the “Certifications”), and
- an IRS Form 990 or Pro Forma 990.

Charities that did not participate in the CFC in the prior year, or are new to a federation, have to submit a full application.

Campaign Costs and Charity Fees

The new CFC regulations establish a new way of covering the costs of the campaign: by directly collecting fees from participating charities. Rather than having local CFC administrators recover money after the campaign solicitation period, OPM has created three fees:

- Application Fee: Beginning with applications to the 2017 campaign, OPM charged an upfront, non-refundable application fee:
 - National/international charities applying independently paid $570.
National/international charities applying under the umbrella of a federation paid $400.
 - Local charities applying independently paid $340.
Local charities applying under the umbrella of a federation paid $255.
- Listing Fee: If a charity is approved for the campaign, it must then pay a listing fee in order to be included in the CFC Charity List. This fee is due after the charity is approved by the government, and the fee amount will be based on the organization’s total annual revenue as reported on the IRS Form 990 that accompanied the application. For the 2017 CFC, charities are paying listing fees according to the following schedule:

National/International charities:

| Total Revenue | Listing Fee |
|-----------------------|-------------|
| $0 - $249,999 | $370 |
| $250,000 - $999,999 | $555 |
| $1,000,000 and up | $2,270 |

Local charities:

| Total Revenue | Listing Fee |
|-----------------------|-------------|
| $0 - $249,999 | $20 |
| $250,000 - $999,999 | $135 |
| $1,000,000 and up | $635 |

- Distribution Fee: OPM has reserved the right to assess a third fee if the first two are inadequate to cover the cost of the campaign. This distribution fee will be assessed against actual donations. It will be similar to the fee formerly used by PCFOs to recover campaign costs – that is, proportional to the amount of money raised by the charity.

One of the government’s stated goals for the new CFC has been to assure donors that 100% of donated funds go directly to charities. This is part of a wider effort to increase donor engagement and participation. Of course, if the government institutes the distribution fee, it will undermine this intent.

OPM’s regulations require the agency to announce the fee amounts by the end of October each year, and the fee structure may change from year to year.

Federation Fees

In the old CFC, federations typically withheld a fee from CFC donations flowing to their members. Depending on the federation and its internal operations, these fees may or may not have been apparent to the participating charities. OPM required that federations publish any such fee in their annual report. But as we reported in 2013, the language describing fees was often hard to find or, once found, hard to understand. To see our full report on this topic, Federation Fees in the Combined Federal Campaign, please visit www.wg-alliance.org/research.

In the new CFC, federations will no longer be permitted to withhold their fees from CFC donations. Here is the language from the new regulations:

Federations must disburse CFC funds to each member organization without any further deductions. Membership dues, fees, or other charges to member organizations must be assessed outside of the CFC disbursement process.

In effect, the new regulations require federations to separately collect from each member any fees charged for the federation’s services.

Appendix: Results for All Charities

The following table lists every national and international organization that participated in the 2016 CFC. Again, the figures reflect data from 57 administrative zones representing about 62% of the total amount raised that year. The figures have been projected to 100 percent and have been rounded to the nearest $100.

The list is in alphabetical order. Names of some organizations have been shortened for reasons of space.

The table provides the name of each organization, its five digit CFC code, its federation affiliation if any, and its extrapolated 2016 pledge total.

Extrapolation introduces error, especially for organizations receiving a low level of support. Thus, we have elected to not report specific pledge totals for national and international organizations that apparently received under $1,000. In these instances, we have simply noted, < $1,000.

Finally, please note that we present estimated pledge figures in all cases, even though we have access to actual pledge totals for many organizations. Because our reports emphasize trends and proportions rather than exact numbers, we believe it makes sense to apply the same approach to all organizations, rather than to treat a subset differently.
